1. Between mid-May and mid-June 1951, the stocks of material at the Soviet Army ordnance depot at Schoenebeck remained at a constant level with outgoing and incoming shipments in equilibrium. [redacted] did not see the arrival of any large shipments of equipment. However, a large shipment was expected to arrive from Bernau on 18 June. *
2. The amount of work at the work shops has considerably increased since the beginning of May, so that more workers were hired. The only Soviet unit which delivered its materiel for repairs directly to the work shops was Army Unit [redacted] from Magdeburg. All other deliveries were cleared through the depot headquarters. ** 25X1C
3. No changes in soldiers or administration were discernible. Captain Kovollov, (fnu), the chief of cultural section, and Lieutenant Zavilyov, (fnu), the paymaster, were to return from leave to the U.S.S.R., on 18 June. ***
4. Due to a shortage of fuel at the depot administration, supply trips which had hitherto been made by truck were now made by a horse-drawn vehicle.
